What Oil Discovery Means To Alberta

While nothing but extensive development and the actual pumping of a number of wells can be depended upon to ultimately prove the commercial value of the Okotoks-Calgary oil field, the discovery of oil as reported in the Dingman well cannot fail to give a tremendous impetus to the prospecting and development of the oil possibilities of the province.

To residents of Alberta, the great majority of whom have never had the experience of an oil frenzy, the full import of the discovery will scarcely be realized at first, nor will it be clearly understood what possibilities follow upon the discovery of an oil field of considerable extent. In the creation of new and sudden wealth, however, oil has gold mining looking like a prosaic and staid industry. The value and extent of its production at the present time, and the variety of its uses is such as to stagger the imagination. It has made more millionaires in recent years than copper, iron and wheat, it has revolutionized the merchant and naval marine of the world, has made the flying machine possible and has given the world the greatest modern vehicle, the automobile. It has caused wars and unhinged governments, the struggle in Mexico today being very largely an oil war. Search for it has sent experts, geologists into every latitude of the globe. Strategists in the national capitals, and the chancelleries of Europe recognize oil as the key to supremacy upon the seas. Britain alone has spent millions in search of an oil supply with which to fire her navies, invading the wilds of Africa and Asia, sending agents to Egypt, Columbia, Nicaragua, Sumatra, Soudan and every other country where there was the remotest prospect of opening up a new field. In fact, the greatest problem that has faced the British admiralty today may be said to be the question of where to get oil under the British flag in sufficient quantities and in a region sufficiently fringed about by breadth of territory to be secure from attack.

Those familiar with the geology of Alberta have long believed that in this country such a supply would be found. But there was always the difficulty of interesting capital in the rather remote possibility that the hole to be sunk would be in the place where the oil was. Nature's riddle spread the possibility over too much territory, and to sink money upon a guess which had a hundred chances of being wrong to one of being right was altogether too much of a venture for those who prefer to see their money going into something with a certain finish. But Calgary people have taken the venture and, so far as the indications can be counted upon, they have won.

Should the result of the Calgary venture turn out as rosy as appearances indicate, there will have been added to the province of Alberta a new resource worth untold millions. Statistics, in such matters, are scarcely descriptive of the possibilities, but it is worthy of note that in the state of California alone, at the commencement of this year, there was reported to be on hand no less than two hundred millions of dollars worth of oil. Every gusher is a spigot pouring out the richness of the earth into the country's bank account.

Individuals and companies may win or lose, according to the freaks of fortune, and the soundness of the judgment of the operators. But the country, as a whole, is the richer by just that much value in oil. Consequently the frenzy, which follows every discovery, to participate in this new bounty of nature; to take the gamble in the hope of becoming one of the favored ones who reap the harvest of the depths of earth. Already the frenzy has set in in Calgary, and the strange scenes of a community gone mad in the glamor of new possibilities of easy wealth are quite likely to be in evidence in the immediate future.

In considering all these, however, the balanced members of the community will no doubt remember that guessing where the anti-cline may be located two or three thousand feet

Nothing Unusual

The express train, moving along through the midnight darkness. Suddenly the alert engineer, springing to the lever and at the brakes. The sparks flew from the rails as the locked wheels slid along with a cry of pain. The lights were extinguished as car after car tumbled from the rails. Then came a shuddering silence, more terrible than the harsh grating of iron on steel.

Some passengers made torments from fragments of wreckage and searched for dead and injured. A sound singularly like a snore issued from a pile of debris. Hastily removing several pieces of twisted iron, they dragged forth a slumbering porter.

"Great heavens!" they exclaimed. "Didn't you know there had been a wreck?"

"Well, gemmies, I shod felt some thin, but I done thought, we was couplin' on de dinin' car at Caesoon."

"See here, young man," said the stern parent as he entered the parlor, "you have been calling on my daughter rather frequently of late. Are your intentions serious?"

"They are," answered the young man. "I wish to induce her to exchange $150 and her old piano for a new one."

The first coins of North America were issued in the Somer Islands, now known as the Bermudas, in 1616. The earliest United States coins were the copper half cents and cents of 1793.

England's Newest Colony

The Rev. Dr. William S. Rainsford, who has spent two years among the wild men and beasts of East Africa, speaking recently of the fertility of the soil in England's newest colony, declared it was richer than that of the Canadian northwest.

"Two or three crops a year can be raised," he said, "and corn grows from twelve to fifteen feet high in four months. No fertilizer is needed, as the soil is too rich. I have seen a gunn tree grow ninety-eight feet high in four months. It'll be one acre in 5,000 L. properly fitted. This land will raise the best cotton in the world and the best coffee."

THE BULLETIN, CALGARY, ALBERTA

Sirius the Mighty

Writing in the London Times as to the effect upon the earth if the giant star Sirius were as near to us as is our own sun, Mr. Scriven Nelson says that the change that would overtake our land and sky would transcend everything hitherto dreamed of in the heavens. The star would be a brilliant globe twenty-five times larger than the sun appears to us, emitting for millions of miles into space gigantic fire and scorching solar rays. Bombaraded by terrible heat, the earth would become red hot, its atmosphere dissipated, its vegetable covering crushed, its ocean basins turned into barren wastes, while iron would flow like water. The distance from us of Sirius, the brightest of the fixed stars, is so great that its rays require eight and a half years to reach us, notwithstanding that light travels 186,300 miles a second. Sirius travels through space at 1,000 miles a minute.

They Got Their Answers

When the ship owning millionaire Sir Donald Currie was asked by a heckler at a political meeting at Greenwich if his father had not been the victim of a swindle, he answered: "It is true—and if your father had been a barber you would have been the same."

When Mr. Lloyd-George, who is proud of his lowly birth and bringing up, was asked a similar question, he answered as wittily and even more severely. The heckler wisely inquired if he remembered that his grandfather used to drive a cart, and he answered: "You will have to forgive me, ladies and gentlemen," the card had quite escaped his memory, but I see the donkey is living yet."

SUFFERERS FROM PAINFUL RHEUMATISM

Liniments of No Avail—Must be Cured Through the Blood

Why are there so many failures in the treatment of rheumatism? Why are so many sufferers resigned to a life of pain, despairing of a permanent cure?

Because—rheumatism defies any treatment that does not build up and purify the blood. The poisons of rheumatism are in the blood and it is only through the blood that the disease can be fought successfully. Unless the blood is weak and impure, rheumatism cannot get a foothold. When it does the disease is incurable. Unless the blood is strong enough to overcome the poisons alone. It must be strengthened and purified. Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for Pale People are the best blood building medicine you can take. They make new blood with every dose and promptly break further progress of the disease.

pure and strong that not the least trace of rheumatism remains. Mr. J. S. Snelcar, Rochester, N. Y., writes: "About two years ago I was laid up with rheumatism. For two months could not walk and had to stay in an invalid's chair. My feet were badly paralyzed and my arms seemed to be paralyzed. I had been using doctors' medicine for a long time, but it did not seem to help me, and the doctor finally told me that rheumatism was incurable. I was told that the only way to cure it would be to have a change of climate. At this time I decided to give Dr. Williams' Pink Pills a try and got a supply. After I had taken them for a while I found they were helping me, and I got a further supply. I had completely cured myself and I have not been sick one day since. I strongly recommend Dr. Williams' Pink Pills for this trouble."

You can get these Pills from any dealer in medicines or by mail, post paid. Send a box six boxes for $2.50 by writing The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Miss Wheat, the new teacher, was hearing the history lesson. Turning to one of the scholars, she asked: "James, what was Washington's farewell address?"

The new boy arose with a promptitude that promised well for his answer.

"Heaven, mm-am," he said.

Ask for Minard's and take no other.

"Which do you admire more," inquired the young belle, "black eye or blue?"

"Well, really," replied the young fellow slowly, "the light is so dim here I can't say just now."—National Monthly.

The dandy sauntered into the village shop and asked, with an offensively supercilious air, "Do you sell pure biscuits in this rotten little shop?"

"Yes, sir, certainly," said the shop man solemnly. "Shall I put them in a bag for you to take home, or will you eat them here?"

Belle—Hear Billy called on you last night.

Boula—Yes, he did.

"And did he tell you the old, old story?"

"Yes he talked about the weather the whole time,"—Yonkers Statesman.

Historical Thousand Pound Note

The Royal United Service Institute of London, Eng., has just received a very interesting historical souvenir from the governor of the Bank of England.

It is the one thousand pound Bank of England note which Lord Cochrane paid to secure his release from prison in 1814. The note bears the following endorsement:

"My health having suffered by long and close confinement and my pressors being resolved to deprive me of property or life, I submit to voluntary to protect myself from murder, in the hope that I shall live to bring the delinquents to justice." Cochrane, Grated Chamber, King's Bench Prison, July 3, 1815.

Rear Admiral Lord Cochrane, M.P., was imprisoned on a false charge of embezzling in connection with the Berenger frauds. After being in jail a year Lord Cochrane at the request of his friends paid his fine with the above mentioned bank-note, by an admiring public in two cent subscriptions.

How to Tell Good Cloth From Bad

When our grandmothers went shopping they used to feel the linen, woolens, and other fabrics between a discriminating thumb and forefinger to see if they were "firm" and "well woven." This simple method probably served their purposes well enough, but some more accurate, and thorough test is needed in these days, when so many manufacturers are adulterating their goods, and using the various cheap fabrics increased to bewildering proportions.

The University of Wisconsin proposes to teach the women of America to know good cotton, linen, wool and silk, so thoroughly that no merchant will ever be able to cheat them with inferior goods.

The subject is to be presented in a correspondence course. The quality of the goods is to be determined (officially defined and effective tests for adulteration explained. The lessons in the course will also deal with the hygiene of clothing and the economic problems of shipping.

A Curious Army Toast

At a dinner of 100 members of the Welsh Fusiliers have the most curious army toast. It forms part of the ceremony of the grand dinner given annually on the last day of the year.

The dinner the drum major, accompanied by the band, the mascot of the regiment, a lion, a tiger, a bear, a red and blue ribbon, marches around the table, carrying a plate of leeks. Every officer or guest who has never eaten leeks is obliged to do so, standing on his chair with one foot on the table, while the drum major, the mascot, the lion, the tiger, the bear, the red and blue ribbon, marches around the table.

All the toast are coupled with the words "to the health of the regiment." The toast is drunk. Each guest stands with one foot on his chair and one on the table, and the pliers, cupping, parade the room.

As the taxi skidded from side to side with increasing speed the occupant was becoming dreadfully nervous.

Didn't Want to Divide

An old colored man, charged with stealing chickens, was arraigned in court and was incriminating himself when the judge said: "You ought to have been a lawyer. Where's your lawyer?"

"Ain't got no lawyer, Judge," replied the old man.

"Very well, then," said his honor, "I assign lawyer to defend you."

"Oh, no, sah; no, sah! Please don't do that," the dazed beggar, "Why not?" asked the judge. "It ain't no big deal, sah," replied the old man, "I ain't no lawyer."

"Well, judge, ah'll tell you sah," the old man, who was a tattered old hat confidently. "It's just day away—ah'll tell you sah, chickens mahine!"

The Constant Widower

"There is only one inconsolable widower that I know of," said the ostrich, "his mate dies, never remarries."

"He is alone, the most faithful of husbands, covering the eggs from sunset till late the next morning."

"Sometimes naturally domestic complications occur, and the ostrich kicks. He kicks his wife to death!"

"What a consolation it must be to her, as she passes away, to think that he will remain true and constant to her memory and never, never seek another mate!"

Turn and Turn About

It was sometimes the custom of professors in former times to give free tickets for their courses—a kindness that was sometimes abused. In the book of Edinburgh Anecdotes, Francis Watt tells how the famous Dr. John Barclay, extra-ordinary lecturer on anatomy at the University of Edinburgh, between 1777 and 1825, once applied a humorous corrective to an imposition of this kind.

He received a letter from Dr. Laing, the well known antiquary, requesting a free ticket for a young medical student. Barclay professed himself delighted to confer the favor, but invited the pupil to accompany him to Dr. Laing's bookshop, where he selected books for the student, and the exact value of a ticket for his course of lectures.

Then, sagely remarking that without a book his lectures would be useless, he presented the books to the astonished youth as a gift from Dr. Laing. He would act as listen to the young man's consultation, but banded him and the books out of the shop. He did not find it necessary to repeat the lesson.

The Wife Wife

The following is a quaint old description of a desirable attribute of a good wife:

First, she would be like a snail, always keep within her own house, but she should not be like a snail, to carry all she has upon her back.

Secondly, she should be like an echo, to speak when she is spoken to, but she should not be like an echo always to have the last word.

Thirdly, she should be like a town clock, always keep time and regularity; but she should not be like a town clock, to speak so loud that all the town may hear her.

This is not altogether in keeping with modern ideas on the position of women!

Mr. Dennis Drew, a well-known actor-baritone, was telling the other day a story about the Wells-Carpenter fight, which 't will be remembered, lasted exactly seventy-three seconds.

"Two 'n' thirty," drawled the other, "but I was rather bored, and I did not stay to the end."—Tit-Bits.

A Concrete Example of the Fossilized Condition of the Senate

A great change surely has come over this Canada of ours in recent years. Three or four years ago it was: "Hurrah for the boundless West, the land of destiny and the home of opportunity! Throw wide the doors—in this land of great resources, what we want is people. Bring them in by the million!"

Now men march the streets carrying banners to prove that they are unemployed. Industry lags and development stops. And a venerable Senator arises in that antiquated assemblage to assure his fellow Rip Van Senators that the Government should send agents to every port in Europe to stop the influx of more men because the country is incapable of taking care of those already here.

What a spectacle!

Canada—three thousand miles from east to west; nearly a thousand miles of it from north to south lying within the temperate zone, and stretching north to the great unknown. A land of resources in fertile soil, virgin timber, mineral, fish, oil, coal; a land of limitless prairies, broad enough to feed the world; a land whose beautiful mountains are the storehouse of gold and silver and copper and lead—enough to make Cortez envious; a land whose limpid streams and chrysaline lakes constitute an invitation to the adventurer, the explorer and the empire builder; a land with a brooding, mysterious, sombre north—"The last of my lands and the first"—awaiting the invasion of the white man with his civilization to uncover new riches and furnish the reason for the building of new provinces and new cities. Canada, the greatest, broadest, richest, most potent land under the sun!

And with all these resources to work on, and with less than eight million people scattered across the three thousand mile fringe which decorates her southern border, we hear the frantic cry go up from Ottawa to "Stop them! Stop them from coming!" And for what reason?

Because, we are asked to believe, this Canada of ours cannot assimilate the few thousand who have come to us in the last year or two, and further immigration would mean disaster.

Ye gods and little minnows!

If the Canadian Museum of Political Antiques—more commonly called the Senate—was of any earthly use at all it would try to discover the real cause of the present unsatisfactory state of affairs and endeavor to remedy some of the existing defects in our national and economic scheme of things.

We all know that one reason why the cost of food has soared so high in recent years is because the population of the cities has increased a hundred times more rapidly than has the population of the agricultural sections. In other words by far the largest portion of our immigrants become non-producers, until finally we have got to the place where there are not sufficient farm products to go round. And the price of these products, being regulated by the eternal law of supply and demand, naturally goes skyward as a result. Moreover, this lack of development in agriculture has a decidedly deterrent effect on the manufacturing interests of the country. The wheels revolve more slowly—the labor market becomes flooded, and the unemployed problem becomes acute.

But when the fossilized Senator attempts to remedy this state of affairs by stopping immigration he is morose-emulating the man who stopped his clock in order to save time.

What is needed is the direction of more immigrants to our agricultural lands and fewer of them to the large commercial centres. One means of doing this is to enact such legislation as will tend to make farming a profitable business. Settlers cannot be put on the land and coerced into becoming producers—not for a moment—but surely it is possible to surround our greatest industry—agriculture—with such conditions as will make it attractive to the man who comes to our shores seeking a home.

The C. P. R. learned this lesson long ago. Indeed, that corporation has always been in advance of the Canadian Government in its methods of dealing with the immigrant. Thus, we have their ready-made farms, their loans to settle, etc., and many other schemes which make farming attractive to the newcomer.

On the other hand the Government induces the people to come to Canada, and then leaves them severely alone. The inevitable result is that many of them drift to the cities, are by circumstances forced to join the ranks of the unemployed, and finally find themselves in such straits that they rise up and curse us.

Then some fossilized Senator begins to show signs of life, rubs the mildew from his eyes, brushes the cobwebs from his whiskers, and gives his country a black eye by suggesting that we had better take down our sign, board up the windows and go out of business, in other words, that we had better tell all prospective immigrants to stay at home.

God help the king!

Just Observations

"The motion picture craze has spread almost over the entire world; the Chinese are now eager for them," declares an exchange. Shucks! That's nothing. Why, they've even got them in Blairmore.

These days when a man opens a modern magazine and sees the lingerie advt. he blushes and says to the pictures: "Excuse me, ladies; I guess I am in the wrong room."

A lot of Coleman cash has gone to Calgary during the past week to be invested in oil shares. Indeed, some of the boys ran themselves so short of money that if elephant skins were selling at ten cents each they couldn't buy enough to make a pair of spats for a canary.

If the medical authorities do not find a new disease common to Calgary people known as Oilitis or Petroeumonia or Gasoleander, many people will be much surprised.—Albertan

Hindus May Raise a Row

Ottawa, May, 18.—Word has been received at Ottawa that the steamer Wainagata Maru which sailed recently from Shanghai with 500 Hindus on board is expected to reach Victoria on Friday of this week. The steamer was chartered especially by a wealthy Hindu with a view to testing the Canadian laws which have hitherto been invoked to bar out Hindus. The arrival of the steamer is awaited with considerable anxiety at Ottawa, as it is realized that this is the first serious effort which has been made by the Hindus to test the Canadian laws. They have undoubtedly an abundance of money, and a vigorous effort will be made to force the Dominion to allow British subjects from India to enter freely into Canada. Orders have been sent to the immigration authorities at Victoria not to allow the Hindus to land and to deport them from British Columbia. Trouble is feared at the dock, as the Hindus may even attempt to use force in landing.

The government believes it is on sound legal and constitutional grounds and the immigration authorities before taking action consulted with the justice department.

under the surface of the earth is by no means a sure thing, nor is it less of a gamble to know whether the oil is there even if the proper formation has been delimited by previous drillers. So that all who have not the money to spare will be well advised to keep in their pockets the coin they may require for bread and butter. They might venture it and eat cake; and they might finish with nothing to eat. But whether the little fellows venture or not, the main desideration will undoubtedly be brought about if the Calgary strike gives up to anticipation. Alberta will be prospected from the international boundary to the northernmost limit and beyond. The Calgary strike means a great deal to all Alberta. If there is oil in this province it will now be found.

At Hillcrest, on Monday at 4 o'clock p.m., S. Charlton was united in marriage to Miss Margaret Mary Nason, Rev. D. J. Watkins-Jones officiating, assisted by Rev. Shires, of Lundbreck. Miss E. Charlton acted as bridesmaid, while W. White supported the groom. After the ceremony, a wedding breakfast was served at the home of the groom's mother, and at 8 o'clock in the evening a dance and reception was held in the Masonic hall. The bride was the recipient of a large number of handsome and useful presents. This was the first wedding to be solemnized in the new Anglican church at Hillcrest.

A public meeting of the ratepayers, members of the board of trade and aldermen is called for this coming Friday evening in the council chamber to consider what is best to do with the park in the way of fixing it up, etc. The Bulletin has heard various ideas and suggestions voiced on the street during recent weeks—and this meeting is the best place in the world in which to get ideas and suggestions acted upon. In connection with this park question, two points are beyond dispute, viz. (1) the park certainly requires to be put in good shape for the summer, and (2) the time to begin this work is right now. Be at the meeting.

When Vapor is Dry

It is a popular misconception that aqueous vapor and ice are wet. They are in their dry state, and become wet only when they turn to water. "No dry is aqueous vapor that it will dry any moist object that it comes in contact with, states an eminent authority, Mr. M. Mott-Smith. Superheated steam, before it condenses, is a dry gas. Ice feels wet if the temperature of the hand is sufficient to melt it, as ice it is dry."

"Does your hand find his sums hard?"
"Oh, no; the sums are easy enough but his results are too original to suit the teacher."—Fleegle Blatter

Regularity

of the bowels is an absolute necessity for good health. Unless the waste matter from the food which collects there is got rid of at least once a day, it decays and poisons the whole body, causing biliousness, indigestion, and skin headaches. Salts and other harsh mineral purgatives irritate the delicate lining of the bowels. Dr. Morse's Indian Root Pills—entirely vegetable—regulate the bowels effectively without weakening, sickening or griping. Use

Turn and Turn About

It was sometimes the custom of professors in former times to give free tickets for their courses—a kindness that was, sometimes abused, in the case of Edinburgh. One of the famous Dr. John Barclay, extra-legal lecturer on anatomy at the University of Edinburgh between 1790 and 1800, once applied a humorous corrective to an imposition of this kind. He received a notice from Dr. Laing, the well known anatomist, requesting a free ticket for a young medical student. Barclay professed himself delighted to confer the favor, but invited the pupil to accompany him to Dr. Laing's bookshop, where he selected books on anatomy to the exact value of a ticket for his course of lectures. Then, sagely remarking that without textbooks his lectures were useless, he presented the books to the astonished youth as a gift from Dr. Laing. He would not listen to the young man's protestations, but hurriedly took the books out of the shop. He did not find it necessary to repeat the lesson.

Electric Light in Egypt

Rept promises soon to follow the lead of more advanced countries in great schemes of electric power development. As a result of the building of the Assuan dam on the Nile, the primary object of which was to conserve water for irrigation purposes, the development of 5,000 horse power in the form of electrical energy has been made possible. Different purposes to which this power can be put are being considered. Another horse—power will manufacture two tons of calcium cyanamide in one year, and thus save Assuan power, could turn out 100,000 tons per annum—that is, 2,000,000 worth of the fertilizing agent most extensively required in Egypt. Another use the power could be put to, as shown by Sir William Willcocks' recent work, is summer irrigation, on an even more extensive scale than at present provided for. It is also proposed to utilize the power in the weaving of silk.

Unspecialized Experience

Experience is to be had in abundance—to a large degree. So that the employer asks for and demands workers who are equipped with experience. But where the experience has been so specialized or cumulated as not to serve his purpose, the employer is not for a moment deceived.

Unspecialized experience is doing more to encourage idleness and failure than almost all other agents of decision and action.

For of what value is experience to you if you can't hitch it up and have it doing something to someone? Every time you think or make a movement you accumulate experience—but if it is to be of use, you must systematically thinking and converting to action and to results the process of your mind—that is travel to success.

Don't take a job merely because it's a job. It is bound to give you experience that you may reject or that may undo the valuable experience you already have. Specialize your experience—make every hour of thinking and action in work to contribute to a large experience—an experience of experiences both connected and useful.

Waiting for Him to Die

Two tramp workers crossing a bridge over a river one day when they saw a notice which read "Five dollars will be given to anyone saving life from this bridge."

"You jump in, Bill, and I'll come and rescue you," said one.

"Righto!" said the other. "And then we'll share the quid." Accordingly one of the tramps plunged into the river and began to yell for help. Mike, safe on the bridge, turned to his friend struggling in the water, and with an excited countenance called out:

"Sorry, Bill, but I've seen a notice that says ten dollars will be paid for a dead body."

Deceived

"Mr. Chumpley," he presently said, "what is a popinjay?"

Sister's head wrinkled "his forehead."

"Why, a popinjay in a valise bag."

A Prehistoric Irish Giant

There is some fact for ancient traditions that seem wild improbabilities today. The giant told in stories current among the Irish peasantry seems to have really lived, for a skeleton, which it is stated, appeared to be ten feet in height, has been discovered at Dyar, Co. Louth. It was one of three unearthed by two men who were digging the foundations for laborers' cottages. Each skeleton was in a separate grave completely encased with stones. The skull of the giant was in a state of perfect preservation and measured 18 inches from the crown to the chin, and the leg bones were abnormally long. The name of the supposed to be those of a prehistoric giant.

Modest

"Now, Willie," said the visitor to a little fellow who had been in school only two weeks, "who is the smartest boy in your class?"

"I'd like to tell you," he replied, "but papa says that I mustn't boast."

The Secret of Youth

Youth is what we all love to have and to hold, and since Ponce de Leon's time many a way of securing it has been prescribed—dosage, drinking sour milk, systems of exercise, rubbing the soles of the feet, these things may help the individual, but not every individual. And let us not forget that youth is in great measure a gift of the spirit. Children are young because for them life abounds. The spring of energy within and the refreshment without. Wonder, curiosity, the enjoyment of 10,000 trifles, a short memory for punishment and pain—all these things make for youth. Quarrels, restlessness, suspicion, worry, grouching—these bring harder lines around the more hardened arteries of old age. Nothing is too small to delight a child, given the right conditions; nothing too big to disturb, for very long, the spanned sky. That is the secret of youth. Draw the curtain, Master Man, on with the human comedy—Collier's.

Counting the Cost

"How much does it cost your husband to run his automobile?"

"Well," replied Mrs. Chuggins, "the language of my husband leads me to fear that it is going to cost him his eternal salvation."—Washington Star.

EVERY TOWN AND VILLAGE IN CANADA

HAS SOMEONE CURED BY DODD'S KIDNEY PILLS

Mr. E. Handke tells How They Sent Him Back to Work and Saved Him Much Money.

Vanbrugh, Ont. (Special).—One more man has proved to his entire satisfaction that the one sure cure for sore back is Dodd's Kidney Pills. That man is Mr. E. Handke, a well-known resident of this place, and he is telling his story to the benefit of his fellow sufferers. He says: "I have been suffering for some time with sore back."

Mr. Handke says: "At times I was not able to get up in the morning. But the time I had taken one of Dodd's Kidney Pills I found that the pain was getting less, and by the time I had taken six boxes I was all right and able to go to work again."

"I want to say to any man who suffers from sore back that Dodd's Kidney Pills are the only remedy I would recommend. They saved me a large doctor's bill and much lost time."

Sore back is one of the symptoms of Kidney Disease. The natural way to cure it is to cure the kidneys. Dodd's Kidney Pills cure sick kidneys. If you haven't tried them yourself, ask your neighbors. Every neighborhood in Canada has a man or woman who has been cured by Dodd's Kidney Pills.

The Model Wife

The following is a quaint old description of the desirable attributes of a good wife:

First, she should be like a snail, always keep within her own house, but she should not be like a snail, to carry all she has upon her back. Secondly, she should be like an echo, to speak when she is spoken to, but she should not be like an echo always to have the last word. Thirdly, she should be like a town clock, always keep time and regularity, but she should not be like a town clock, to speak so loud that all the town may hear her.

Fourth, she should be like a cat, always keep her claws in her sleeve, but she should not be like a cat, to scratch her claws in her husband's back. Fifth, she should be like a hen, always keep her chickens in the pen, but she should not be like a hen, to scratch her claws in her husband's back.

Sixth, she should be like a dog, always keep her tail wagging, but she should not be like a dog, to scratch her claws in her husband's back. Seventh, she should be like a pig, always keep her mud in the trough, but she should not be like a pig, to scratch her claws in her husband's back.

Eighth, she should be like a cow, always keep her milk in the pail, but she should not be like a cow, to scratch her claws in her husband's back. Ninth, she should be like a horse, always keep her tail in the wind, but she should not be like a horse, to scratch her claws in her husband's back.

Tenth, she should be like a sheep, always keep her wool in the pen, but she should not be like a sheep, to scratch her claws in her husband's back. Eleventh, she should be like a goat, always keep her milk in the pail, but she should not be like a goat, to scratch her claws in her husband's back.

Twelfth, she should be like a cat, always keep her claws in her sleeve, but she should not be like a cat, to scratch her claws in her husband's back. Thirteenth, she should be like a dog, always keep her tail wagging, but she should not be like a dog, to scratch her claws in her husband's back.

Fourteenth, she should be like a pig, always keep her mud in the trough, but she should not be like a pig, to scratch her claws in her husband's back. Fifteenth, she should be like a cow, always keep her milk in the pail, but she should not be like a cow, to scratch her claws in her husband's back.

Piano Maker Praises Zam-Buk

BEST FOR STIFFNESS AND SPRAINS.

As an embolism for stiffened muscles, sprains, rheumatism, etc., there is nothing like Zam-Buk. Its soothing powers are so great that it gives almost instant relief. Mr. D. R. Gourlay, of Messrs. Gourlay, Winter & Leeming, the well-known piano manufacturers of Toronto, used Zam-Buk, and this is his experience: "I have much pleasure in stating that two applications of Zam-Buk entirely cured me of a very severe strain of the back. While not given to the indiscriminate use of or belief in patent medicines, I can conscientiously recommend Zam-Buk."

Zam-Buk is used by the world's foremost athletes. Why not give it a trial. Price life per box at all druggists and stores. Zam-Buk is also best for eczema, cuts, sores, bruises, ulcers, piles, and all skin injuries and diseases.

Involved

Young Albert was a very practical fellow, and everything that he learned at school he endeavored to apply in his daily life and work.

The lad had recently become very friendly with a little boy who had lately moved in that vicinity, and one afternoon his mother asked him if his little playmate was an only child, whereupon Albert looked very wise and triumphant.

"He's got just one sister," he said. "He tried to catch me when he told me he had two half sisters, but I guess I knew enough about fractions for that."—Harger's Monthly.

The indications of worms are restlessness, grinding of the teeth, picking of the nose, extreme peevishness, often convulsions. Under these conditions the best remedy that can be got is Miller's Worm Powders. They will attack the worms as soon as administered and will grind them to atoms that pass away in the evacuations. The little sufferer will be immediately eased and a return of the attack will not be likely.

Why, indeed? "I thought postal authorities had barred guessing contests from newspapers," remarked Gabe. "They have," said Steve. "Well, why do they let them print the weather forecasts every day?" demanded Gabe.

Willie—Uncle, do you ever play Indian in your life? Uncle—Indeed, no! Why do you ask? Willie—Because I saw a scalp on your bedroom table.

"Symthe & Co. are going to erect a five-story building." "Will it be in Canada, has your attention?" "That's another story,"—Philadelphian Ledger.

Too Often

George Ade, in his quality of cynical bachelor said at the Chicago Athletic Club:

"I was sitting with a little girl of eight the other afternoon. She looked up from her Hans Andersen and said: 'Does m-r-a-g-e spell marriage, Mr. Ade?'"

"Yes, my child," said L'E-change.

"Fark of the Dog"

Wild dogs do not bark—as so familiar to us in the 'bark' of our dogs is never heard from any species of wild dog. Wild dogs growl, snarl, howl, but they never give a real bark. The true bark of the domesticated dog is the result of his long association with man and of his attempt to 'speak' in answer to his master's voice.—New York American.

Mr. Dennis Drew, a well-known notary-baron, was telling the other day a story of the Wells-Carpenter fight, which it will be remembered, lasted exactly seventy-three seconds.

Two "nuts" met at the club. Said one: "Where you at the fight last night?"

"Oh, yes," drawled the other, "but I was so tired and I did not stay to the end."—Tit-Bits.

Minard's Liniment Co., Limited, Yarmouth, N.S.

Gentlemen.—In January last, Francis Leclaire, one of the men employed by me, working in the lumber woods, had a tree fall on him, crushing him fearfully. He was, when found, placed on a sled and taken home, where grave fears were entertained for his recovery, his hips being badly bruised and his body turned black.

Minard's Liniment on him freely to loosen the pain and with the use of three bottles he was completely cured and able to return to his work.

Running Trains on Time

On a system so intricate as that of the C.P.R. where the troubles of the train dispatcher are added to by the problem of having many cases only a single track for both freight and passenger trains going both ways, the record of a perfect day showing all trains run on time gives the same feeling of satisfaction that a patient player feels who wins out in a game of solitaire. Imagine then the genial smile which diffused itself like summer sunshine over the face of Mr. Fifty Windsor station when he could point to the blameless records of May 3 and 4—every single train on time. The calendar division marked "O. T." May 3 was a Sunday, on which it might be expected that trains should be good, but May 4—a Monday—gee whizz!

"Gee! I had an awful fright last night!" "Yes, I saw you with her,"—Harvard Lampoon.

Chest Colds and Hoarseness

Quickly Rubbed Away

"Nerviline" Gives Speedy Relief and Cures Over Night

Got a cold? Is your voice raspy—is your chest congested or sore?

If so, you are the very person that Nerviline will cure in a jiffy. Just think of it—for forty years it sinks right into the soreness, takes out inflammation and soreness, d-stryoos colds in a truly wonderful way. Rub Nerviline over the chest—rub on lots of it, and watch that tightness disappear. Nerviline won't alter, it sticks in too fast—doesn't simply stay on the surface like a thick, oily liniment would. If the throat is raspy and sore, rub it well outside with Nerviline, and use Nerviline as a gargle diluted with warm water. Just one or two treatments like this and your voice and throat will be quite normal again.

Just think of it—for forty years the largest used family medicine in this country—Nerviline must be good, must quickly relieve and cure hundreds of ills that beset every family. Try it for earache, toothache, coughs, colds, are chest, hoarseness, and muscular pains in every part of the body. Large family size bottle, 50c; trial size, 25c, at all dealers.

Not of a Frenchman.

It is rather a cruel fact of history that a large proportion of the early settlers in Australia were convicts and men who had failed to make good at home. Australia was fixed upon by the British government as a suitable spot for its outcasts because of its extreme distance. Although it is now years since the arrival of the last convict ship, Australians are still sensitive about this objectionable use of their country. Apropos, C. E. Jacoby, in his book on Australia, tells of a Frenchman, who in conversation with an Australian, would up a long and beautiful language by saying: "We are the best chosen race in the world."

"True," murmured the Frenchman. "You were most carefully chosen by the best English judges."

Familiar Position

Photographer (to young man)—"I will make a much better picture if you put your hand on your father's shoulder."

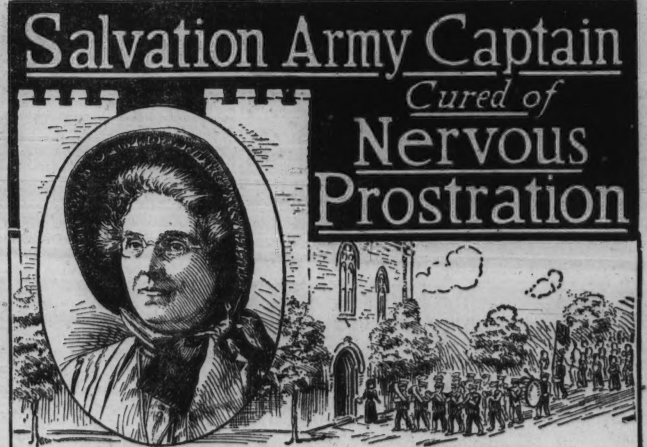

The Father—"It would be much more natural if he had his hand in my pocket."

That Wasn't His Job

Brander Matthews says that Shakespeare was not a player of great power. He may have been, especially gifted as a stage carpenter either, but that doesn't seriously impair his reputation.

MRS. CAPTAIN CLINANSMITH.

NERVES UNSTRUNG

DID NOT KNOW WHAT REST OR SLEEP WAS

Mrs. Captain Clinansmith, of the Salvation Army, formerly of Essex, and now living at Leamington, Ont., writes: "I have used this treatment certainly worked like magic. I was so run down that I suffered for 12 months with acute nervous prostration, and was so bad that I never knew what sleep or rest was."

"I consulted five different doctors, but still I did not make any signs of recovery. A friend of mine had suffered as I did and had been cured by Dr. Chase's Nerve Food and recommended it to me."

"I can say that after taking the first box I felt every dose doing me good, and by continuance of this medicine I was cured. I could sleep as well as ever and found life worth living. When other medicines failed, the nerve food built me right up."

"A few years ago I was cured of a most severe case of protruding piles by using Dr. Chase's Ointment. I had to keep to my bed and doctors could give me no help. When suffering untold agony I heard of Dr. Chase's Ointment and was cured of piles, to the wonder of those around me, and after I had almost given up hope."

"Dr. Chase's Nerve Food has made a wonderful record as a cure for nervous exhaustion and prostration. By forming new, rich blood it restores feeble, wasted nerve cells, and, working hand in hand with nature, its cures are thorough and lasting. 50 cents a box, 6 for $2.50. All dealers or Edmondson, Bates & Co., Limited, Toronto. Write for booklet on 'The Nerves.'"

St. Alban's church was crowded on Sunday morning on the occasion of the Bishop of Calgary's visit for Confirmation. Eleven candidates were presented by the rector, seven of whom were adults. His Lordship also celebrated the Holy Eucharist and administered the Sacrament to over fifty communicants, the largest number at any one time in the history of the parish.

The St. Alban's Junior Football Club proposes travelling to the Blood Reserve on Monday next to engage in a contest with the Indian lads at St. Paul's Mission. Rigs will be sent to meet them at Macleod, and while at the Mission free board and residence will be provided them by the authorities. The match will take place on Tuesday morning and the return journey the same day.

In this world of weal and woe there are to be found many persons who present a splendid exterior appearance, but who, when the "innerside" is revealed give one something of a jolt. Mine Host Clair of the Grand Union Hotel, however, is just the reverse of that. He first made epic and span the interior of his hostelry, and left the "outward" renovation until the last. The exterior of this hotel is this week being greatly enhanced by the application of a coat of fresh paint—Minerva paint at that.

The local order of Owls, as announced in a recent issue of The Bulletin, are making preparations for an elaborate celebration in Coleman on Dominion Day—July 1st. Indeed, this is to be a little more than an Owl celebration—it will really be a sort of Boost Coleman Field Day, for the fraternal order named is going to unusual pains to make the event one that will attract visitors from all parts of The Pass. A subscription list circulated among the business men of the town met with a splendid response, and our readers better get ready to enjoy the biggest day of sports that has been put on in any of the towns herabouts for many moons.

There was only one case in the local police court this week. A chap with a rather euphonious name got warm under the collar about something—probably because he didn't buy enough oil stock—and gave vent to his feelings by using thoroughly good English words in a way in which they were never intended to be used by the man who invented the language. Chief Ford, having a rather strong regard for the poetical beauties of the mother tongue, couldn't stand for any of the rough stuff, so he gathered the careless one in and charged him with just plain, ordinary cursing, or using profane language. The cadi recognized the seriousness of the offence and assessed the guilty one the costs of the court. He also gave him a warning not to cuss any more.

St. Francis church, Hillcrest, was dedicated by Bishop Pinkham on Sunday evening last in the presence of an overflowing congregation. Every available space was packed and dozens failed to gain admission. Mr. Edgar Williams, of St. Alban's, Coleman, presided at the organ, a large choir from the same church led the congregational singing, and a solo was sung by Mrs. Williams. Some sixty Anglicans journeyed from Coleman in rigs and motors to display their fraternal interest in the development of church work at Hillcrest. Evensong was sung by Rev. R. J. Shires, of Lundbreck and Cowley, and the lessons were read by Rev. Watkins-Jones. The bishop subsequently dedicated the chancel of the church, and afterwards solemnly admitted Mr. Sam Charlton to the office of lay reader. The addresses given by His Lordship were deeply appreciated by those privileged to be present. The usual evening service at the Methodist church was suspended by the minister, Mr. Anglin, who also supplied lamps and the extra chairs needed to seat the congregation. Cordial relationships have always existed in the camp between the Anglican and the Methodist churches and this last expression of true friendship will serve in further cementing them.

Special Announcement

We beg to advise the people of Coleman that we have purchased a large portion of the stock of A. Poggalli, insolvent, consisting of Groceries, Dry Goods, Boots and Shoes, etc., at a remarkably low rate on the dollar.

In a few days, therefore, we purpose putting on a Big Bargain Sale in the above lines, when we will quote prices below anything ever given in Coleman before.

These goods are all fresh, new and up-to-date and will be genuine bargains.

Watch our advt. in The Bulletin for further and fuller particulars.

We expect to move into new and more commodious premises in a short time, when we will be in a much better position to cater to the wants of our many customers.
